"CHIMES OF NORMANDY."

The Castle Square Opera Company
Make a Change of Bill.

The Columbia was well filled last night by an audience eager to renew acquaintance with the old comic opera favorite, "Chimes of Normandy." By the way, the applause there is still a charm in the little but popular piece to win the people. Methods have changed since this piece was written, and the story and action of now of it sounds strained and even more than comic opera artificial. But so many new changes, and the old airs were as fresh and grateful to the ears last night as ever before.

The Castle Square Opera gives it a very careful presentation. There are four fine settings, and the costumes are newly fresh and new. The cast included the best talent of the company and introduced a prima donna new to Washington, in the person of Miss Clara Englander. She is a mezzo-soprano, and possesses a good voice, which she handles skillfully. She made an impression commensurate with her opportunity as Germaine. Miss Golden was the Serpentine. She sang with her customary pleasing effect and added the hymn with a gleeful spiritfulness.

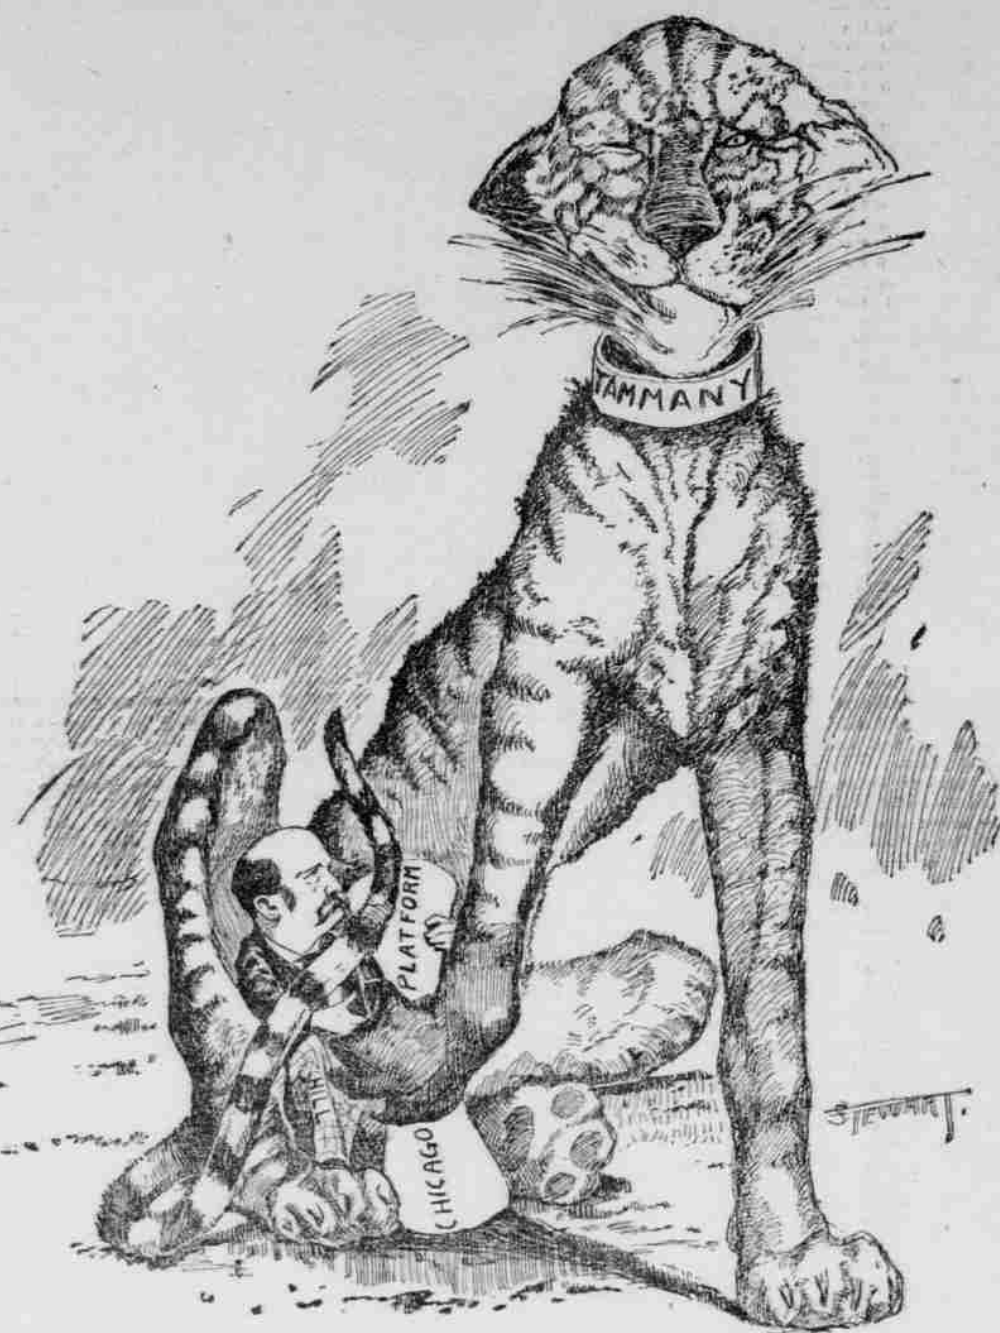

The honors of the evening, however, went to William Wolf, an old hand at the matter. Mr. Wolf is a better character actor than he is comedian or singer. Gaspard suits him exactly and he gives a performance which is highly effective, especially in the dramatic scenes. Joseph Sherman sang "Chimney Sweep" well, and Mr. Stuart made Henri an admirably fine fellow. His voice, manner and action have improved immeasurably since last spring. His walk song was finely done. W. H. Conly, of this city, played the notary and passed his friends at his success. Mr. Tu Shone, Cloward of this city, will sing Henri at last performance tomorrow. Arthur Woolley was funny as one Bull.

"My boy came home from school one day with his hands badly incriminated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schaff, with Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed, without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings, and rheumatism, I know of no medicine or preparation equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50-cent sizes for sale by Henry Evans, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, 938 F Street and Connecticut Avenue and 8 Street Northwest, and 442 S Maryland Avenue northeast.

IN NEW YORK.

PRESIDENT WILL GO AWAY

Time of Departure to Be Determined Today.

WEARY OF OFFICESEEKERS

They Swam at the White House and Give Mr. McKinley No Rest—New York Will Be Looked After and Some Consular Appointments Will Be Made.

It is probable that the Cabinet meeting today will consider the matter of the President's further vacation, and it is possible that he may get away tomorrow. Mr. McKinley is understood to be very tired of the rush of the office-seekers. Still it is not thought that he would leave at present except for Mrs. McKinley's health. The President told a friend who called yesterday that he considered it his duty to Mr. McKinley to take her away from the city again, and that he might possibly go today. Monday, at any rate, will probably be his last day here for some weeks.

These few days have not been of much use to the office-seekers. New York matters will probably be attended to, in part at least, and it is believed that there will be a batch of consular appointments before the President leaves. Aside from this, the plans have been few and small, and the President has been busy with the flood of the White House.

Assistant Secretary Day was with Mr. McKinley for a large part of yesterday, and it is understood that they were going over the consular appointments. Justice Day has taken these offices almost entirely out of Mr. McKinley's hands. The following appointments were the only ones made by the President yesterday: D. N. Cooper, of Alabama, to be marshal for the Northern district of Alabama; Abraham L. Leas, to be deputy auditor for the Postoffice Department; Patrick J. White, to be assessor in charge of the assay office at Deadwood, S. D.

Very few people saw President McKinley yesterday out of the great throng who tried to. The Cabinet people and assistant secretaries took up nearly all of his time. Secretaries Sherman, Bliss and Alger were all with him for a few moments in the morning. Mr. Roosevelt was also in conference with him for a time. Secretary Alger said a word for Youngblood and several other Alabama politicians, who called with him, and also had a further discussion with the President over the troubles of the Klondike miners.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt talked with the President about several of the Government vessels more or less out of repair which he believes should be put in shape immediately. Mr. Roosevelt is a cautious and careful man in the Navy Department despite the reputation he has attained for dash and quickness. While he believes all our vessels should be constantly in order and ready to use, he does not care to take any action of this kind in the absence of Secretary Long, without the advice of the President. He has had one talk with Mr. McKinley already since his return on the subject, and is now only waiting for his decision, which it is understood will be favorable.

Senator Platt made a short call to say good-bye, as he told the newspaper men. He also made the statement that he had come to say a word about the Brooklyn postoffice, but had forgotten to mention it when he arrived.

Congressmen Low and Butler of New York also called, partly in the interest of Mr. Crofts, Senator Platt's man for our next session of port of New York, partly about the Brooklyn postoffice, but mostly in behalf of their constituents, who want consulates.

The most disappointed man of all the New Yorkers who have been set aside is probably Gen. Lead, who was anxious for the position of shipping commissioner, now supposed to be the property of Dickey, who takes the place of the commissioner of navigation.

SOCIETY NOTES.

September is making its record as a month for fiddlers. An out-of-town wedding of interest, for social Washington will be that of Miss Marjette Vermilyea, daughter of Mr. Hugh Ford Vermilyea, who will be married at Marble, Ind., September 22, at 7 o'clock in the evening at the church of that place. The engagement of Miss Steele and Mr. Belmont was announced early in the morning. The bride-elect is the only daughter of Mr. George W. Steele, a member of Congress from Indiana. She lived with her parents last winter at the Edith House, where Mr. Belmont was also a guest. Miss Steele is a bright, interesting young woman, and is an accomplished musician. Mr. Belmont is a son of the late Gen. W. W. Belmont, who was Secretary of War during President Grant's administration. He represents in Congress the Third Indiana district of Chicago. He is the half brother of Miss Alice Belmont, whose engagement to Mr. Paul May, of the Belgian legation, has been so much discussed, and when a lad, spent much of his time in Washington.

Mr. Charles Warren Stoddard, of this city, author of "North Sea Idylls" and the "Last Letters," has been visiting Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, at Nahant, Mass., but is now the guest of E. A. P. Northcott, the architect, at "Two Stacks," North Scituate. Mr. Stoddard's next book will be a reminiscence of his travels on the Levant.

Miss Carrie Acker, eldest daughter of Mr. Charles Acker, of Hyattsville, and Mr. Percy Cox, of the Interior Department, were quietly married at the home of the bride's father Wednesday evening by Rev. Charles J. C. May, rector of the Pinkney Memorial Church. Mr. and Mrs. Cox's bridal trip will include Asheville and Hot Springs, N. C.; Old Point, Norfolk and Baltimore. They will reside permanently in Hyattsville.

Rev. William M. Turner, rector of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, is home from his summer vacation, which he spent at Bar Harbor and along the New Hampshire coast.

Rev. George O. Little and family and Dr. and Mrs. Bliss have returned to the city after a delightful summer spent in the White Mountains and at Kennebunk, Me.

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at the residence of Mr. F. A. Cogswell, No. 3122 O Street, the contracting party being his daughter, Miss Helen Cogswell, and Mr. Walter Schott, of Alexandria county, Va. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Wright Norris, of Alexandria county, in the presence of relatives, the bride and groom being attended by ushers or maids. The wedding gown was of green cloth, with which was worn a white hat to match. At the conclusion of the wedding breakfast, which followed the service, Mr. and Mrs. Schott left for a Northern trip that will include Niagara Falls and Watkins Glen. Upon their return in October they will be at home at Oak Grove farm, in Alexandria county, the old homestead of the groom's family, where they will reside.

The marriage of Miss Mary Bronsman and Mr. John Fitzmaurice was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at St. Aloysius Church, Rev. P. J. O'Connell, S. J., officiating. In the presence of a large number of friends, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eva Bronsman, and Mr. Michael Donahue was best man. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of blue tulle, trimmed with white satin and chiffon. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the new home of the bride and groom, which was attended by many friends.

Mr. Louis Pollock, who has been spending the season at her summer home at Skyland, on the top of Stony Mountain, Pa., expects to return to the city tomorrow. The Misses Fitz and Welles Pollock will not be back before October 1, but Miss Susan P. Pollock, who left quite early in the summer, has already returned.

A reception will be given at the Florence Crockett Mission, No. 218 Third Street, northwest, this afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock. The ministers of all denominations will be most cordially welcomed.

H. S. Halley and wife, and James Halley, left last night to visit relatives in Misalliance of an Archduke. Berlin, Sept. 16.—The newspapers of Austria-Chapelle publish a sensational story to the effect that Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir presumptive to the thrones of Austria and Hungary, when on a recent visit to Rome, the great gunmaker, of Essen, met Franklin D. Roosevelt, Krupp's housekeeper, and became violently enamored of her. The couple, according to the story, went to London, where they were married. They are now believed to be spending their honeymoon in Algiers.
